

EASTERN SIERRA LAND TRUST ANNUAL REPORT

07-08

Dear Friends:

Good news is difficult to find these days. Let us share some of that rare commodity with you as we close the books on fiscal 2008.

In these pages you will read of the great progress and achievements we have experienced this year. Over 5,000 acres of scenic and productive Eastern Sierra land permanently protected; Community engagement through education and public visits to our project sites; and, in the face of state and national financial turbulence, relative fiscal stability here at the ESLT.

We take assurance that we are doing the right things when our critical sources of support continue to endorse our work. Public and private funding of our projects and our operational expenses has, in these perilous financial times, been adequate for our needs. And seemingly every day, new opportunities for protection of important lands present themselves to us.

In 2009 we are redoubling our efforts to preserve the scenic beauty and economic sustainability of this very special place. We will continue to depend on your support as we pursue our collective dreams.

In Trust,

Tony Taylor
President
ESLT Board of Directors

The Eastern Sierra Land Trust works with willing landowners to protect vital lands in Inyo, Mono, and Alpine counties for their scenic, recreational, historical, agricultural, botanic, watershed and wildlife values.

2007-2008 Conservation Successes

Benton Hot Springs Ranch Conservation Easement

- Acres: 900
- Special Values: This working ranch has been owned by the Bramlette family for four generations. The property includes a variety of habitats: alkali meadows, wet meadows, springs, seeps, ponds and creeks, creating riparian habitat that supports migrating waterfowl and songbirds, aquatic invertebrates and many other species. Cattle grazing will continue here, which contributes to the local economy and rural way of life. Rotational grazing and good management ensures that habitat quality on this productive and beautiful ranch remains high.

McAfee Conservation Easement II

- Acres: 10
- Special Values: This easement is adjacent to Dr. Tom McAfee's first conservation easement, which was donated in 2003. The second easement also protects continuous critical winter range and migration corridor for the Round Valley mule deer herd. Other wildlife such as mountain lion, coyote, bobcat, long-tailed weasel, and western rattlesnake utilize the property. Stands of antelope bitterbrush provide essential winter food for mule deer.

Cedar Hills Conservation Project

Cedar Hills Conservation Project

- Acres: 3,748
- Special Values: This area is known as Cedar Hills due to the abundance of Utah junipers. It is home to pronghorn, sage grouse, mule deer, and mountain lions, among other wildlife species.
- Subsurface Mineral Rights and Deed Restrictions: BLM now owns the property, but ESLT was deeded the subsurface mineral rights to ensure that mining will never take place on the land. The deed restrictions also ensure that the property is managed for its natural habitats. The ESLT is charged with monitoring for the compliance of those restrictions.

Yednock Conservation Easement

- Acres: 480
- Special Values: The property was cleared of isolated abandoned debris piles by new landowners, Ted Yednock and Doug Frazer, who wanted to ready the property for a conservation easement donation. This easement preserves the natural habitat and scenic vistas found in the Mono Basin. Wildlife that utilize the property include mule deer, mountain lion, American badger, coyote, black-tail jack rabbit, and others.

Land Stewardship Program

ESLT's Stewardship Program ensures that the special conservation values on the lands that we have helped preserve are thriving and intact. At least once a year, we visit every property, in cooperation with the landowner. We walk the land, review past reports and photographs, check boundaries, and maintain meticulous records. Using the latest technology, we create maps and photo points that document the continuing importance of these preserved lands. To fund this program, all of the landowners who own easement properties have donated to our dedicated Stewardship Fund, which is used only for annual monitoring and legal defense of conservation easements.

We're happy to report that all of our preserved lands remain in excellent condition!

In the Community

What a memorable year for ESLT community outreach! In the fall of 2007, ESLT initiated its first Living With Wildlife Festival to bring together wildlife groups and teach residents about one of our program areas: Wildlife and Plant Communities. This event kicked off our venture into elementary education. In the classroom, we taught students about mule deer migration and eventually brought kids on a field trip to the Benton Hot Springs Ranch Conservation Easement.

To celebrate the new conservation easement on Benton Hot Springs Ranch, and our partnership with the Bramlette family, we gathered over 130 people from across the state to learn about the land, hike the meadows, and enjoy barbeque and live music. Great fun was had by all! Later in the summer, we organized volunteers to help remove a noxious thistle on the ranch, beginning a long-term project to enhance wildlife habitat and rangeland. ESLT was an active participant in community events this year and we look forward to seeing our cherished supporters at many of our fun events in 2009!

With our growing capacity, generous landowners, and dedicated volunteers, ESLT is reaching out to the local community and building support for the work we do.
